

Once more the fleet followed the flag-ship in its salutation to supreme authority.

Wind Fairly Howls.
When the President returned to the Mayflower and climbed to the forward bridge, the wind was fairly howling in the rigging. He was well muffled up in a great coat, and needed every ounce of its warmth. His silk hat constantly was in danger of being carried away, but Mr. Taft held on to it firmly until the Mayflower, steaming up the river against the full force of the blow, had begun to pass the ships of the line. Then Mr. Taft doffed his hat in answer to the strains of the national anthem which came from each vessel, and the rigors of naval formalities were permitted him to do it again for a full hour and a half.

The Mayflower as she moved in and out among the gray-clad men-of-war was attended by two torpedo boats. A round trip of the fleet completed, the Mayflower came again to anchor off West Twenty-third Street, to permit the President further to review the ships after they had gotten under way. The ships had been pointed up stream all morning in the swing of an ebbing tide. It was intended that they should not reach the harbor until the flow had changed and their bows had been pointed toward the wider waters of the lower bay. This would have made maneuvering the many vessels in the close confines of the river a comparatively easy task.

For more than an hour past the schedule time the President waited for the tide to change and for the advance of the moving fleet. But under the influence of the gale, the ebb continued undiminished.

Giving up hope at last for an early change in conditions, Rear-Admiral Cuthbert, in command of the fleet, issued orders to get under way. The gray dressing lines which had flapped and fluttered throughout the day came tumbling to the decks and the military masts and yardarms of the battleships stood out again in all their gaunt bareness.

Difficult Manoeuvres.
The exhibition of seamanship involved in turning the massive vessels practically in their own length, against wind and tide, has never been equalled in the navy and called out great praise from the President and the naval officials aboard the Mayflower.

The manoeuvre successfully completed, the fleet began to move. The steaming column, flung farther than the eye could reach in the haze of the late afternoon, presented a fitting picture to close the notable day.

"Those who saw the fighting fleet," said President Taft after the review, "could not fail to be struck with its preparedness and with its high military efficiency, and must have been proud of its personnel."

He said the demonstration had had an educational value in arousing patriotism, in illustrating the ability to mobilize on short notice and in showing the skill of the officers.

"The equipment of the fleet is excellent," said the President, "except as to the number of destroyers and cruisers and colliers in proportion to the whole number. To meet the full requirements there should have been approximately 100 destroyers, or an average of four to each battleship."

Mr. Taft emphasized the fact that unless a navy is maintained at the highest possible state of efficiency it is a needless extravagance." He said he was more than ever convinced of the desirability of conferring upon the commanding officer of the fleet the title of admiral, or at least of vice-admiral.

Dandruff Goes

Falling Hair Ceases, Scalp Itch Vanishes, New Hair Grows Profusely and Becomes Fascinating.

Don't say, "I've read all that before"—just go to Tragle Co.'s right away, lay down 50 cents, say, "I want a bottle of that PARISIAN SAGE, that so many sensible people are using," then take it home and use it as directed, and then if you are not satisfied that it is just as advertised, take back the empty bottle and Tragle Co. will refund your money. "Pretty rich, isn't it?" you'll say. Not at all. Tragle Co. know just what PARISIAN SAGE will do, and they have the promise of the American makers, the Groux Mfg. Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., that they will back them up in their strong guarantee. Pretty fair and square offer, isn't it? and only 50 cents for a large bottle at Tragle Co. and druggists America over.

Mrs. J. G. Franklin, Fulton, Mo., writes: "PARISIAN SAGE eradicates dandruff, cleans the scalp, and makes the hair fluffy and beautiful; also, is a good hair grower. I shall continue to use it as long as it gives such perfect satisfaction."

MANAGERS PLAN BLISS MIGHT HAVE BEEN PRESIDENT

Aggressive Republicans Do Not Echo Taft's Note of Despair.

Washington, November 2.—Immediately after the return of President Taft to the capital there is to be a conference of men presently and prospectively active in the management of the national and congressional campaign committees over the preliminary political work to be done this winter. The note of despair sounded in the House of Representatives by the Republican Club the other day is not echoed by the aggressive fighters in the party, and is far from being accepted as the keynote of the approaching campaign.

On the contrary, a militant spirit is being aroused, especially in the congressional section of politicians, who are preparing to make a struggle to capture the next House of Representatives.

Heads Are Unbowed.
The ferocious grasping given the Republicans in the last congressional elections has enraged rather than subdued the old warriors in the party; their heads are unbowed, and they are gearing up for another round.

Chairman McKinley, of the Republican Congressional Committee, returns from Europe this week, and will be in Washington later in November to participate in the conference, which is to be a joint meeting of the national and congressional committees.

The committee to manage the congressional campaign will probably not be reorganized until February, when Chairman McKinley will be re-elected, whether he wants the office or not, and his last effort was a big success.

His last effort was a big success, occasioned by the death of Representative Lousenslager.

Sherman Heavily Interested.
Vice-President Sherman, taking keen interest in the congressional outlook, as indeed he has always done, even after his elevation to the Vice-Presidency, he kept in touch with the congressional committee, of which he was once chairman, and gave his advice and assistance in every campaign.

His last effort was a big success, occasioned by the death of Representative Lousenslager.

Close team work is expected to prevail between the national and congressional committees in the next campaign, and to arrange for this is one of the objects of the coming conference of politicians here.

Road Is Granted Franchise.
Winchester, N. C., November 2.—The Raleigh commissioners to-night granted the Southland Railway a franchise to extend its line a distance of two miles through Salem to the Salem Iron Works on Liberty Street, where it will build a freight depot. Overhead bridges are required over two streets. There was much opposition, but the route selected. More than 40 citizens were present.

Aviators Reach Gloucester Point.
Newport News, Va., November 2.—According to reports brought to Old Point today, Lieutenants Ellison and Tower, the naval aviators who were forced to land at Crab Creek Monday night in a big meeting, were made yesterday with the object of testing the engine before resuming the flight. The engine, however, was not started, and prevented the aviators from starting today. Numerous reports concerning the young naval officers were in circulation today, one of which was that they had decided to abandon their flight and ship the machine to Annapolis from Oranien, another was that they had reached Heidelberg, and still another, that the hydro on the machine is leaking badly.

Captain Jenkins, of the fishing boat Bona, who towed the machine to shore after it had landed in the bay Monday, was at Old Point today, and says that the aviators are at Gloucester Point.

VETERAN DIES AT AGE OF 93 YEARS

HENRY H. HIBBLE.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Gloucester, Va., November 2.—Henry H. Hibble, of Gloucester county, Va., was born October 3, 1818. He retained his physical and mental strength remarkably well. A few days before his death he walked five miles to Gloucester Courthouse, and talked cheerfully with his friends. He was the oldest Confederate veteran living in this section of Virginia. His emigration in 1861, when thirty-two years of age and remained with, forced by his health to leave, being honorably discharged. He boasted of being a Confederate veteran, a Methodist and a Democrat.

"The Cross of Honor" given him by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was placed on his breast in the casket as he required, and the Confederate flag was on the casket, as it was borne to the cemetery at old Henric's Church (Methodist Episcopal Church, South), after the funeral services had been conducted in the church by Rev. W. D. Sawyer, his pastor, assisted by Rev. W. B. Lee, of the Episcopal Church, with seven old veterans as pall-bearers.

He lost a brother, Captain John L. Hibble, and a son, T. J. Hibble, during the war. Both were members of the Twenty-sixth Regiment, Virginia Infantry. He leaves three daughters and three grandchildren surviving him.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Eureka Mills, Va., November 2.—Luther C. Morton died at his home, near Darlington Heights, Prince Edward county, last night, after a brief illness. The interment will be in Keysville Cemetery to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Morton was forty-one years of age, and leaves a wife and three small children.

Captain Edwin N. Wise.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Lynchburg, Va., November 2.—Captain Edwin Newton Wise, formerly a resident of Lynchburg, died yesterday at his home near Coleman's Falls. He was seventy-seven years old and death was due to heart failure. Captain Wise was a native of Alexandria. He served in the Confederate army during the Civil War. He is survived by three children—E. N. Wise, Jr., of Lynchburg, and Misses Jeannette and Editha Wise, who reside at home.

OBITUARY

Mrs. James H. Bradley.
Mrs. James H. Bradley died at the residence of her husband, 734 North Fourth Street, yesterday in her forty-eight year. She is survived by her husband and by ten children: Charles W. J. Lee, Mrs. W. A. Edelblut, Mrs. R. L. Lempert, Mrs. Clara, Horace, Ruth, Willard and Edward Bradley, also by two brothers, Granby H. Perry and Roy G. Perry, and one sister, Mrs. C. H. Hancock. The arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

Funeral of Dr. F. A. Williams.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Atton, Va., November 2.—The funeral services of Dr. F. A. Williams, who died at his home at Atton, on Sunday, were held Tuesday at Hebron Baptist Church. For twenty years he practiced in this section of Nelson and Albemarle counties.

Dr. Williams was forty-eight years of age. He graduated from the old Medical College in Richmond, and had many friends in that city. He leaves his widow, four children and a sister. He was a member of King Solomon's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Hillsboro, and an Odd-Fellow.

CO-OPERATION IS URGED BY DABNEY

Addresses Enthusiastic Audience of Raleigh Business Men.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Raleigh, N. C., November 2.—A stirring address by Secretary William T. Dabney, of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, was enthusiastically received to-night by a big audience of members of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce and other citizens. His theme was "Co-Operation." He indicated many avenues of co-operation of citizens and the commercial and other organizations of a city that would yield great results in financial and social betterment. He declared that hearty co-operation of Richmond newspapers has been a tremendous factor in the progress that city has made. Raleigh and Charlotte are similarly blessed, he said. He advised Raleigh to follow Richmond's example, and steer clear of propositions to move factories to the city unless there were clear economic reasons why the business would be better than it had been where the factory was proposed to be moved from.

Mr. Dabney left the pathfinding automobilists from Atlanta to Richmond at Pinehurst. They expect to come on to Raleigh about noon to-morrow. The scouts, Mr. Dabney says, are having a fine trip.
